Disappointed Fair Ones Prepare to Fly to Avoid Too Pertinent Questions.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 27.—Who may know or adequately describe the heartburnings following the sending out of the thousand invitations to the White House to the marriage of Miss Roosevelt and Representative Nicholas Longworth on the 17th of February? Not only is it true that the half has never been told, but, like Diederich Knickerbocker, who said his history of New York was the only correct one that ever had been or could be written, it is perfectly true that the half never will be told. Those who could tell won't.

One thousand! Ten thousand would not have satisfied all who hoped, with what they fondly thought with reason, to be on the list of those bidden to the marriage feast. The invitations all went out yesterday, and there was an end of suspense. There is one way of telling who was among the disappointed ones. If a woman, when she thought likely to be invited should leave town in a day or two, and if she absent herself until after the day of the wedding, set it down as certain she was not bidden. No woman who received an invitation would fail to respond, and while she may explain that her health, you know, positively requires a trip to the South and stay at Palm Beach, or argue, nothing short of the stamp of death on her countenance will convince those who know how the wires have been pulled by the society women of Washington for an invitation, that she got one and did not accept.

One thousand does not include half of official Washington that had at least a shadow of right to expect to be invited. There will be only five hundred at the wedding breakfast, which means heartburnings among the other five hundred comprising the balance of the wedding guests who will see the ceremony.

Short Wedding Ceremony.

The wedding ceremony will not consume more than twenty minutes. There will be a full choral service, and the boys' choir from St. John's Episcopal Church will sing the processionals. Selections will also be sung from Ellik's, including, "The Father, the Son, the Holy Spirit," and "The Father, the Son, the Holy Spirit." The bride and groom will be married by the Rev. Mr. Longworth, who will also officiate at the wedding breakfast. The bride's health will be discussed. Mrs. Roosevelt has already ordered the breakfast, which will be of a substantial character, but it will be a light standing, as the seating of five hundred guests at table is not to be thought of, even at the White House.

The reception will be held in the Blue Room, which will admit of the guests of the bride and groom, and escape without having so much clothing torn from their persons as to make a retiring room a necessity before going home. The bride couple will leave about four o'clock. It is probable they will start southward at three forty-five. It is whispered that Roosevelt, Ga., the home of the bride's paternal grandmother, will be the first stop, and that Mr. and Mrs. Longworth will then spend several weeks of their honeymoon amid the orange groves and the pineapple farms of Florida.

Diplomatic Corps' Wrangle.

The foreign representatives at Washington are all split up over the matter of making Miss Roosevelt a bride. Some days ago, Baron Hengemuller, minister of the Netherlands, Ambassador, called a meeting for the ambassadors, especially the representatives of the South and Central American countries, were indignant that they had been left out of the conference. Some of the ministers have said since the meeting that they would not chip in. The German minister, however, Dean Hengemuller, who is the acting dean of the diplomatic corps in the absence of Mayor des Planches, the Italian ambassador, will call another meeting of the foreign representatives, ministers included, and it is said to be more than likely that they will agree on some form of remembrance to Miss Roosevelt, representative of the good wishes of the diplomatic corps. It is understood that many of the ambassadors, who are personal friends of the bride will send her gifts representative of their personal feeling. Baron von Sternburg, the German ambassador, for instance, is the warm personal friend of the President, and will send a set of china, to be presented through the German ambassador and the Secretary of State. Those members of the corps diplomatic who are not the personal friends of the bride will send a set of china, to be presented through the German ambassador and the Secretary of State. Those members of the corps diplomatic who are not the personal friends of the bride will send a set of china, to be presented through the German ambassador and the Secretary of State.

Rough Riders' Remembrance.

The wedding presents will be rather more than the conventional "numerous and costly." The addressees due to death by society reporters in describing the collection of presents received by brides. The Rough Riders are having made at Albany's a silver service of rare design. The regimental emblem of the regiment will be raised in gold on each piece, and the Stars and Stripes will be worked out in gold in the larger pieces.

The platter will represent the President mounted on his horse at the head of the Rough Riders. It is rumored that a delegation of Rough Riders will come to Washington to present the gifts. Reports from New York have it that the diamond cutters of that city are working overtime on the dazzling array of jewels which the friends of Miss Roosevelt are having set in special designs for her wedding gifts. The gifts will be presented to the bride by the Rough Riders, but it is understood that Secretary Taft is having made two magnificent diamond lockets to be presented to Miss Roosevelt. Tiffany workmen are making a wonderful diamond collar, for the bride that is the most expensive piece of the kind ever turned out by the celebrated establishment, being valued at $21,000. A diamond tiara, containing 200 stones, is another gift being made for Miss Roosevelt, and two diamond collars and two diamond brooches are also to go to the future Mrs. Longworth.

Tiffany is just completing an exact full-size, working model of the modern Krug-Jorgensen ring, fashioned of 22-carat gold. This unique gift will be presented

STOP, WOMAN!

AND CONSIDER THE
ALL-IMPORTANT FACT

That in addressing Mrs. Pinkham you are confiding your private ills to a woman—a woman whose experience with women's diseases covers twenty-five years. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, and for many years under her direction, and since her decease her advice has been freely given to sick women.

Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they ought to have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty impels them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probable examinations of even their family physician. It is unnecessary. Without money or price you can consult a woman whose knowledge from actual experience is great.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation:

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken. Out of the vast volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good-will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.—Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Following we publish two letters from women who have accepted this invitation. Note the result:

First letter.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham—For eight years I have suffered something terrible every month. The pains are excruciating and I can hardly stand them. My doctor says I have a severe female trouble, and I must go through an operation if I want to get well. I do not want to submit to it if I can possibly help it. Please tell me what to do. I hope you can relieve me.—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, 30th and E. Capitol Streets, Washington, D. C.

Second letter.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham—After following carefully your advice, and taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I am very anxious to send you my testimonial that others may know their value and what you have done for me.

by the officers of the army. Miss Roosevelt's monogram will be worked in diamond on the ring.

The engagement ring was made by Tiffany. It consists of a five-carat stone, set in platinum.

That is all I know about the Roosevelt-Longworth wedding. Somebody knows all about the bride gown and the trousseau, but I don't, and I wouldn't if I were told, being a mere maid. About the only thing I can say with absolute certainty concerning it is that she didn't make it herself.

MAYOR AND SMITH ABOUT TO FIGHT

honorable and ungentlemanly. Mr. Governor and myself called at your office to talk to you about the matter and you treated us very discourteously and acted in a contemptible manner. It was uncalled for."

At the time the officials visited the Arcade, when the incident occurred, there were several persons in the room and it looked each minute as though there would be some serious trouble. Mr. Smith was mad and the mayor was somewhat excited. Justice Crutcher's presence alone perhaps, prevented trouble between the mayor and Mr. Smith. Justice Crutcher will give his opinion about the pictures on Tuesday morning when the case is called. He did not express any opinion yesterday regarding the charge made by the mayor that the pictures were obscene. The pictures were shown. Rev. Mr. Adkins declined to express an opinion upon the matter.

FRICION IN THE REVENUE TRIALS

Colonel Chapman's Replies to District Attorney Sharp and Disrespectful.

A STATEMENT UNEXPLAINED

Condition of Still Said to Have
Been Hid a Year Showed Only
Two Months of Weather.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

GREENSBORO, N. C., January 27.—In the Samuel case in the Federal Court this morning, the first witness for the defendant was Revenue Agent Chapman. The defense finished with him in a few minutes, but when the district attorney began his cross-examination, it was seen at once that there had been tremendous friction between the representatives of the department of justice and those of the internal revenue department. Colonel Chapman first answers to the district attorney, who is so heated and disrespectful, Judge Boyd rebuked him.

After an hour and a half of searching questioning the revenue agent had cooled down in his answer of volunteered reports at the beginning of the examination. Colonel Chapman rallied the defense by volunteering the information that Mr. Holton had objected to Deputy Collector Green being assigned to investigate conditions in Wilkes county, because he was too much of a Blackburn.

The connection in which this statement was made was not gone into before court adjourned, and it will probably be picked out of the witness before his cross-examination is concluded. Asked about the statement after the court adjourned, District Attorney Holton said he did not care anything about it, and would say nothing, as he will be sure when the witness was made to tell the whole conversation which was a confidential one with him and Collector Harkins, its significance and propriety would appear.

Pending completion of the cross-examination, court at 12 took a recess until Monday.

Colonel Chapman in his direct examination said Samuel had a good reputation as a citizen and officer, and that he had been in the revenue service twenty-eight years, and knew something about stills, and the still exhibited in court belonging to Bill Williams, could not, from its appearance, have been exposed to the weather more than two months. Williams and his daughter had testified it had been hid out twelve months.

Assistant Attorney-General Robb returned to Washington this afternoon.

Killed Cousin and Escaped.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
DURHAM, N. C., January 27.—Gus Chavis, a negro, was yesterday morning shot to death by John Rogers, his first cousin. The shooting occurred in a pool room, which was owned by Rogers. Rogers went off and left Chavis in charge. On his return he asked Chavis for the money he had taken in. Chavis said he did not have any money. This was followed by a dispute in which Rogers seized a gun and shot Chavis. Rogers was arrested and Chavis was taken to the hospital. Rogers is charged with the murder of his cousin.

Killed By a Live Wire.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
SPENCER, N. C., January 27.—This place is enveloped in ice and telephone and electric wires are practically out of use, a number of which are on the ground. An unknown negro was working on his work in the Southern shops here last night, was instantly killed by an electric wire striking him to the ground. The man grappled with the dangling wire for a moment and died. A bystander who attempted to knock the wire off of the dying man was terribly shocked and knocked a distance of ten feet by the current which burned out the life of the negro.

Murray a Free Man.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
DURHAM, N. C., January 27.—W. R. Murray, who was pardoned by Governor Glenn, was this afternoon released from jail. Murray began to serve his sentence of two years in jail four months ago for the killing of his uncle, J. S. Murray, last year. Murray was not sentenced to the road, but to the penitentiary. The charge was by the Governor to two years in jail. After being in jail for several weeks of his time his health began to fail. He was examined by several physicians, and they stated that he would die before he served the two years. The fine of $500 imposed by the Governor was paid by his friends without his knowledge, and he was released.

Gegro Servant Died of Grief.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
SALISBURY, N. C., January 27.—Immediately after the burial on Tuesday afternoon of this week of the late Rev. Dr. Jethro Rumble, pastor of the Presbyterian Church here, came the sudden death of Julia Sumner, colored, who had been a servant in the household for more than thirty years. Her death was caused by grief at the death of her benefactor. Dr. Rumble, who, with Mrs. Rumble, had rescued the servant from the life of a wretched slave, went to the funeral of her master, and threw herself upon a bed and died.

NEWPORT NEWS, VA., January 27.—The coal-burned British steamer Areola, Captain Grant, from Baltimore, for Tampa, arrived here today and reported that she was runned by an unknown five-masted schooner off Cape Henry at 3 o'clock this morning. The sailing vessel was bound to Hampton Roads and proceeded after the accident. The Areola probably will repair at the ship-yards here.

stored to Consciousness He

NEW YORK LADIES IN RUNAWAY

Thrown Out on a Pile of Rocks and Very Badly Bruised.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

WINCHESTER, VA., January 27.—Having been in a stupor and trance for the past six months, D. D. Fogle, a well known resident of Riverton, Warrenton county, Va., has been taken to the Bruln Hospital, at Strasburg, in the hope of being revived. The case of Mr. Fogle continues to puzzle all the physicians, who have been called into consultation. His mind is unimpaired, and he is able to eat and drink, but at all times he is in a strange stupor. Doctors stated today that he could not live much longer unless the spell is broken, but they have hopes of curing the mysterious ailment.

Mrs. Helen Fay, wife of Logan R. Fay, a millionaire New Yorker, and kinswoman of Mrs. A. M. Fay, of East Orange, N. J., narrowly escaped horrible death last night on the Winchester and Martinsburg Turnpike by a horse, attached to their surry becoming frightened at a passing Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train, and dashing away in the direction of the approaching locomotive. The animal, however, swerved to one side, throwing both ladies out with great force. They fell among broken stones on the roadside and were four by country people. Both were severely cut and bruised, and suffered greatly from nervous shocks after being taken home.

Young Mrs. Fay's husband owns the famous Blackwood Battlefield farm near Winchester. She is a beautiful young woman and belongs to an old and distinguished family of Salisbury, Md.

PROTECT WATER FOWL.

Supervisors of Accomac Stop All
Shipmet of Game.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

ONANOCK, VA., January 27.—The board of supervisors of Accomac county, recognizing the justice of the many complaints from those who desire the protection of the water fowl and game of the Virginia Eastern Shore, have revoked their orders of March and December, 1904, permitting non-residents and residents to make shipments out of the State. The rescinding orders go into effect February 1st. Those complaining stated that the permission of shipments out of the State operated as a license to those who kill the water fowl unlawfully. The high prices received for the fowl in Northern States had made the business of shipping them very profitable. The rescinding of the trappers and "lighters," "lighting," or night gunning, seemed to be done on a large scale, judging by the enormous shipments. The violators of the law place bright lights on the marshes to attract the fowl. When the flocks approach the lights they become blinded and are then slaughtered by the trappers.

This unlawful killing for profit could not be broken up by the wardens, as it was impossible to patrol all the marshes. It had to be stopped, however, and the board did not hesitate to order that the shipments be prohibited.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

He will be buried in the cemetery at this place tomorrow afternoon. The young place was thrown by a horse during Christmas. HEMORRHAGES CURED

Mr. E. A. Karner's Life Wasn't Worth the Snuff of a Candle Until Cured of Consumption by Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

"The Effect Was Like Magic. I Felt Better From First Dose."

MR. E. A. KARNER, A Leading Citizen of St. Louis.

Like many a man and woman, Mr. Karner drifted into consumption through thinking he was too strong to doctor a mere cold. Only the use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey at the critical moment saved his life. He says: "Early last fall I caught cold, but being strong and rugged, had an idea I could work it off. I kept getting worse all the time. The trouble went deeper into the throat and developed a bad case of catarrhal bronchitis. Medicine seemed to have no effect. The poison worked into my lungs, and by February the doctors gave me up to die of consumption. Hemorrhages impoverished my blood; I lost flesh, and was completely prostrated."

In despair I commenced taking Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. The effect was like magic. I felt better from the first dose. Hope crept into my heart, refreshing sleep came back, night sweats were not so frequent. I could take deep breaths with less pain, my digestion improved, and, thanks to your wonderful medicine, in six months I was completely cured; once more a strong, hearty, well-filled-out man, full of vim, vigor and ambition."—E. A. KARNER, 3533 N. 23d Street, St. Louis, Mo. July 19, 1904.

You can get it at all druggists and grocers or direct. Price, $1.00 a bottle. Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

"Duffy's is the only whiskey recognized by Government as a medicine. It is absolutely pure. It contains no food oil, and is sold in bottles only; never in flask or bulk. You will know the genuine by the 'Old Chisel' trade-mark on the label or bulk. See that the strap over the cork is unbroken. Refuse substitutes and imitations sometimes offered by dishonest dealers. They are harmful and will not cure you."

Gather Daisies in Canada.

Not all the weather freaks were included in the summary given in yesterday morning's paper. Mrs. Ramon D. Crocuses were blooming there, said this friend, and daisies were gathered in the fields for table decorations.

The announcement in an afternoon paper yesterday that Senator Robert M. La Follette would address the man's meeting at the Academy of Music this afternoon was erroneous.
